

United Nations Activity Report

On 13 November 2018, a briefing was held at the United Nations Headquarters in New York, NY, United States. The topic of the briefing was on the Sustainable Development Goals. Invited to the briefing were community nursing students from the College of Staten Island, and Sigma United Nations liaison Connie Sobon Sensor was invited to speak through the United Nations Speakers Bureau.

Report Submitted by Connie Sobon Sensor, Sigma United Nations Liaison

Once invited to speak through the Speakers Bureau at the United Nations, one may be asked to speak again to other groups. Each student was given the hard copy of the Sigma handout about the Sustainable Development Goals. There were approximately 50 students in the group, and they were engaged in the topic. They combined the day with a tour of the United Nations.

Sigma members should be aware that they can request briefings for groups at the United Nations and also spend the United Nations with their groups. This information can be accessed via the above United Nations Speakers Bureau link.
