

United Nations Activity Report

On 28 February 2019, at the United Nations Headquarters in New York, NY, United States, the first of four planning and informational meetings were held about the 68th UN Civil Society Conference.

Report Submitted by Connie Sobon Sensor, Sigma United Nations Liaison

I was able to gather information to apply to be part of the Outcomes Document Committee for this conference, and later was selected as a member of this prestigious committee for the conference. I was able to connect with members of the planning committee to secure attention for Sigma intentions to engage. I connected with Hawa Diallo from the Department of Global Communications (formerly DPI) who directed me to the Universal Health Coverage pre-conference registration so that Sigma is included in this relevant issue.

BUILDING INCLUSIVE AND SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES
SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, UNITED STATES | 26-28 AUGUST 2019

Today 55% of the world's population lives in urban areas and that figure is expected to reach 68% by 2050¹. As the complexities of urban life grow, communities and local leaders are at the forefront of finding sustainable solutions to poverty and inadequate housing, hunger and health, clean water, energy, environmental degradation and climate change, infrastructure, transport, education, migration, violence and gender equality. These and other challenges are interconnected with similar issues in rural areas and municipalities of all sizes, where activists and civil society organizations partner with governments and the private sector to ensure that communities are inclusive, equitable and sustainable.

The 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) are a blueprint for action, advocacy and partnership, and a compass to ensure that no one is left behind, including those who are poor and vulnerable. Women and young people are seizing opportunities to participate fully and prominently as leaders in these efforts, and there are numerous examples of local action contributing to achieving national frameworks and bringing about global impact. The SDGs were designed with direct participation from more than 10 million people globally over a three-year period and were launched in 2015 with the support of all 193 UN Member States. Civil society is key to promoting understanding of these ambitious Goals and achieving them by 2030.

Against this backdrop, this year's UN Civil Society Conference², reflecting Salt Lake City's leadership and demonstrated commitment on sustainability issues, will focus on SDG 11, "to make cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable by 2030". The agenda will explore the interlinkages among all 17 Goals, including critical issues relating to gender.

The three-day conference, co-hosted by the UN Department of Global Communications, Salt Lake City, and the NGO Executive Committee, will feature opening and closing plenary sessions, interactive thematic sessions, NGO-sponsored workshops, exhibits and a youth hub. Speakers and attendees will include leaders and other representatives from NGOs, UN agencies, academia, faith traditions, the public and private sectors and youth from around the world.

Proposed Thematic Sessions

1. Inclusive Communities – Leaving No One Behind
2. Climate Change – Communities in Action
3. Peaceful Societies – Recovering from Conflict and Nurturing Peace
4. Youth-led Session – Creating Economic Success for Youth
5. Infrastructure and Resource Use
6. Emerging Technologies and Innovation

An outcome document will be drafted by civil society under the leadership of the Conference's Chair, submitted for global consultations leading up to and during the conference, and presented at the closing plenary for adoption.
